In the 35 years I have lived in our beautiful Conejo Valley, I have witnessed a number of natural and manmade disasters; none more devastating than the recent wild fires and senseless Borderline shootings. What I have also seen is that, regardless of the destruction, we always seem to come together with love, compassion, strength, and a desire to help one another.

Just about everyone I know has been affected in some way by the recent events. In times such as these, people tend to get closer. I know I’ve spent more time with my neighbors these past few weeks, getting to know them even better. I bet you’ve experienced the same kind of reaching out.

Then, there are our amazing, tireless law enforcement officers, EMTs, firefighters, and other emergency personnel. We can’t thank them enough for their heroic efforts and personal sacrifices in saving countless lives and homes.

There is much to do and it will take some time to recover, but I have every confidence in the people of the Conejo Valley. We are already rebuilding. Our hills are slowly recovering and turning green. Our wounds are beginning to heal.

These past few months have proven once again that we are a community that cares and that we give of ourselves in providing comfort and aid to those in need. I am so very proud to be a Conejoan.

Mike Corridori

[Sidebar] When entertaining guests from out of town, one place I always took them was to Paramount Ranch; such a beautiful space with an amazingly rich film history. Sadly, it burned along with many other local national parks. We have included some photos taken after the fire. If you are interested in bringing it back to life, a fund has been created at www.samofund.org/donate.

REO SPEEDWAGON
Civic Arts Plaza, Fred Kavli Theatre, 2100 E. Thousand Oaks Blvd., Thousand Oaks
REO Speedwagon has turned its January gig in Thousand Oaks into a pair of fundraisers for victims of the Borderline nightclub shooting that rocked the community and the devastating Woolsey wildfire that followed. “It will be a different thing,” Lead vocalist/guitarist Kevin Cronin said. “Obviously we want to give people a good show with all the hits that they’ve come to know and love, but there will definitely be an aspect of the show honoring the memories of the people who were so senselessly murdered at the Borderline, as well as finding a way to benefit people who have been left homeless. We’re going to do our part in the best way we know how.” See website for tickets.

‘TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD’
Conejo Players Theatre, 351 S. Moorpark Rd., Thousand Oaks
Adapted from the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, ‘To Kill a Mockingbird’ opens in a sleepy Alabama town in the midst of the Great Depression, where Scout and her brother, Jem, live with their widowed father, Atticus Finch. Reminiscent of a bygone era, the play immerses us in a simpler time, as the children play outside in the summer, act out stories and muse about their mysterious neighbor, Boo Radley. Rated PG. A message from our Image Editor Lori Sortino:

I felt compelled to honor what our community has been through with the images in this issue. I collected dozens of images of fire, smoke, burned hills and buildings, responses to events, and the beginning stages of recovery and new growth. Some have been and will be shared in our weekly events e-newsletter, as we could only fit a few in print here. I am deeply grateful to all the members of our community who have contributed images to this collection.

This has been a living example of what Conejo365 means to me personally. As a photographer, I honor what’s happening in the community by reflecting it back in images. For those other photographers out there, I welcome you to also share your reflections of Conejo with the community through our weekly e-newsletter featured image spot. Submit horizontal oriented images to Lori@EssenceCaptured.com any time throughout the year. Here’s to 2019; to honoring the moment and to creating the future!
